

SENTENCING REFORM

Texas has a reputation for being tough on crime, but a new poll shows many voters are in favor of going easier on certain criminals in hopes of lowering costs. We talked to Sarah Rumpf with the Right on Crime initiative about what the numbers mean for elected officials.

