

Wendy Gonzales-Neal

Executive Director & Founder

My Child My Voice

Wendy Gonzales-Neal is a proud mother of four children and two grandchildren, Olivia & Phoenix, and a wife of a U.S. Marine. Inspired by her own educational journey, Wendy is the Executive Director and Founder of My Child My Voice, a non-profit based in Texas. My Child My Voice is an organization created by parents for parents dedicated to creating opportunities for parents to lead in their communities.

Wendy has been a community organizer for the past 13 years and advocates for all children to receive equitable and quality education. As a Parent and Community Advocate, Wendy has also had the honor to consult on many state-wide organization's committees and coalitions such as YES Prep Public Charter School Parent Leadership, School Choice Coalition, EdChoice, When We All Vote, Texas Public Charter School Association and National School Choice Week.

Wendy supports and advocates for all families across the state of Texas. Wendy strongly believes that parents active in the school communities have a positive effect on student outcomes.