

State Representative Helen Kerwin

As a single mother who raised three daughters, Helen's dedication to her family is reflected in the remarkable achievements of her children.

Brooke served as President Trump's policy director in the White House during his first term and is now our Secretary of Agriculture.

Helen Jr. is currently excelling as the principal at Glen Rose Intermediate School and is a distinguished professor at the TCU Business School MBA program.

Helen's decades-long record of service includes experience as a small business owner and entrepreneur, as well as Mayor of Glen Rose, First Republican Somervell County Commissioner, of the North Texas Council of Government's Executive Board (16 counties), Texas A&M Outstanding Service Award, 4H Superintendent, and FFA Horse Judging Coach. She has brought a wealth of experience to the Texas House of Representatives.

Helen is committed to conservative values and limited government. Eliminating property taxes is at the top of her agenda, followed by a strong border security.

As a member of the Public Education Committee, she supports parental rights, protecting families from government overreach, as well as transparency in all taxing entities.
